Colour Heirarchy

Brand Green		The most important actions only: primary CTA, logo, active nav, selected state
Supporting Colours		Everyday UI variety: tags, secondary highlights, informational accents

if green shows up on every icon, every chart, every tag, and every card, it stops meaning "this matters" and starts meaning nothing.
Tier 1 stays rare by design — roughly one or two green elements per screen, max.
Tier 2 exists specifically to give designers somewhere else to put colour so they're not tempted to reach for green out of habit.

Informational

Colour	HEX	Usage
	#4F46E5	Primary (icons, large numerals, borders)
	#373OA3	Text (small numerals — AA-safe on white)
	#EEEDFC	Background tint
	#D2CFF6	Border

Notes:

Never fill a whole card, row, or large surface with a semantic colour — use the tint as background and reserve full-strength colour for the icon, the number itself, and a thin border. On a dashboard with many holdings, this keeps the page feeling neutral overall, with colour appearing only exactly where a value needs to be judged.

Notes

- Largest holding → Chart 01
- 3 holdings: use Chart 01–03
- 5 holdings: Chart 01–05.
- 10 holdings: Chart 01–10.
- 15+ holdings: show the top 10–11 individually, then group everything smaller into a single "Others" slice using Chart 12
- Assignment logic: by rank/size (largest = Chart 01, next = Chart 02, etc.)
- Consistency across screens: colours should stay consistent for a given portfolio's ranking within a session/view, but don't need to be permanently pinned to a specific company forever.
